

Thomas Rogers, Ph.D.

Consultant & Co-Creator of KeenView™

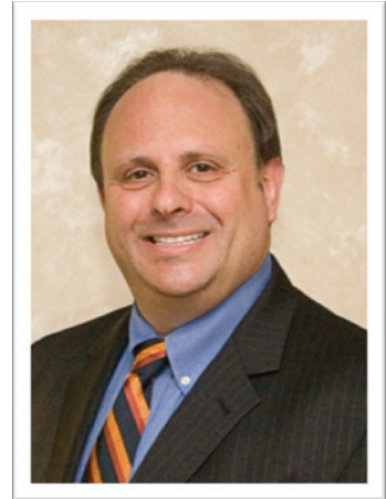

Dr. Tom Rogers is an Industrial/Organizational Psychologist and the founder of The Rogers Group.

As an organizational consultant and executive coach, Rogers focuses on eliminating diseases, which are anything that detracts from a company's profits. Dr. Rogers is also a professional speaker who leads seminars and authors articles on hiring, employee development and evaluation, strategic planning, customer service, and leadership.

Rogers is actively involved with helping client organizations interview, assess, select and develop new corporate leaders.

Realizing the key to a creating a world-class team is hiring the right people the first time, Dr. Rogers developed and is the co-creator of the Keen Hire Behavioral and Values-Based Interviewing system called KeenView. This system dramatically improves the interviewing techniques of Management and Human Resource departments.

Rogers developed a process for hiring and developing 5-Star employees, and he co-hosts a radio program called Business Diseases: Cure Them or Die. A link to the show's archive can be found on the home page of The Rogers Group (www.DrTomRogers.com).

About KeenHire, Inc.

KeenHire, Inc. delivers behavioral interviewing, talent assessment and selection solutions to corporate hiring authorities and recruiters & search firms whose businesses depend on making the right hire the first time. Using a set of carefully developed and proven job benchmarking and assessment instruments combined with the firm's proprietary behavioral interviewing software call KeenView, KeenHire, Inc. clients eliminate flawed hiring procedures, accurately assess the performance of potential new hires, free themselves from costly hiring mistakes and bring difference makers to the table with unprecedented success. For more information please visit www.KeenHire.com